Item 3. Strategic Planning

BPAC Chair Dianne Yee and Vice Chair Grey Gardner led the BPAC in updating the 2022 Strategic Plan by reviewing past achievements, goal-setting for 2023, and planning with an eye towards equity, relationship building/community engagement, and alignment with the needs of Oakland’s diverse communities. This discussion included BPAC Commissioner expectations and how Commissioners can engage with their Council Districts and neighborhood councils.

General comments included:

- Commissioners can post, respond to bicyclist- and pedestrian-related posts, and learn about community meetings on the Nextdoor app and other social media forums.
- The BPAC can and should be a two-way conduit between the City and the public.
- Change all language referencing “bicycle(s)” to “bicyclist(s).”
- While safety (i.e., the reduction of bicyclist- and pedestrian-involved injuries and deaths) is a priority for bicyclist and pedestrian policies, projects, and programs, a higher standard of livability is the goal.

- One purpose of the Safe Oakland Streets program is to increase interdepartmental collaboration to reduce traffic violence in the City of Oakland.
- Community engagement events for bicyclist- and pedestrian-related projects and programs should be systematically communicated to BPAC Commissioners in advance of their occurrence. However, there is often a logistical challenge to connect project and program managers with BPAC Commissioners.
- When the BPAC does not support a bicyclist- or pedestrian-related project, that project may, in some cases, not proceed.
- OPD can be a bottleneck for information about any investigation after a bicyclist- or pedestrian-involved serious injury or death occurs.
- The shift towards a High-Injury Network (HIN) to analyze crash data can obscure some important details in trends about crashes involving the serious injury or death of bicyclists and pedestrians. The 2002 Pedestrian Master Plan and the 2007 Bicycle Master Plan included crash analysis at a higher level of detail than the HIN provides.
- The City of Oakland has a publicly-available map that includes speed and volume data. However, operational analysis may be of greater interest to the BPAC.
- Bikeway projects at Bancroft Ave, 81st Ave, and 85th Ave have been funded recently.

Specific changes to the Strategic Plan included:

Summary of Discussion:

- The Open Forum Committee may require legal counsel from the City Attorney’s Office to consider whether it meets the definition of a legislative body.
