Diana Benitez	Just Cities	Community-Based Organization (CBO)	Backbone CBO along with other orgs in a joint venture	We strive to create just cities that are anchored in a vibrant economy where the human needs and potential of all peoples are fulfilled. We work towards cities where those historically shut out from these opportunities, including because of racism, are driving and adapting neighborhoods that are healthy, inclusive, and just. We do this through a few programmatic areas. We advance racial and policy justice with communities through research, power building, serving as a bridge to government, and making those policies a reality. We provide technical assistance and build capacity in community development, coalition building, and mediation. And we develop a new generation of racial and social justice movement leaders, who will have the audacity to go out and mold and shape the consensus; through policy analysis grounded in implementation understanding, and to have concrete skills in coalition politics and principled leadership.	323-423-0899	diana@justcities.work
